Los Angeles area homeless population

Lincoln Heights homeless population

The national debate has turned to the homeless in Los Angeles. There are many reasons why, including the dire human conditions, but also that our leaders have not given sufficient funds to address the huge number of homeless in Los Angeles.

Currently there are 30,000 in Los Angeles, and 60,000 in the County of Los Angeles.

There are approximately 250 homeless people living in Lincoln Heights, in camps, under the freeway, in mostly out of sight areas.
